For a quarter of a contary Mr. G. A. HENTT has held, and more than held, his own as a writer of stories of adventure; stories characterised by healthy sousation and the inculcation of high morals, free from mouly mouthed sentimentalism. During recent years, however, he has wen a large degree of popularity in the field of more serious fiction by the raciness of his style and the remarkable knowledge of his subject. His name is now almost a household word wherever the English language is spoken. Hougkong, 2 and August, 1896.

But the population of the Philippines is very different in its constitution from that of Cuba. In the latter the Spaniards, or persons of Spanish descent, compose two-thirds of the population, the remaining third being negroes, and it is among the Spaniards themselves that the standard of revolt has been raised. the Philippines, on the other hand, the Spaniards constitute a very small section of the population and the discontent is confined to the natives and the mestizos, or half-eastes, the latter being the more active spirits in the movement. That the Government and the priests lay a heavy yoke on the people, that extertion and corruption are rampant, and then, perhaps for very good reasons, the priand that there is in many respects good reason for discontent there can be no doubt, but there can equally, we think, be no doubt that the party of discontent are quite incapable of achieving emancipation from in the room. The fact that the garrison is mainly composed of natives may constitute a source of danger, but the troops are officered by Spaniards, and, we believe, there is no serious discontent amongst them. However, if a revolution did break out and were carried to a successful end it would be a miefortune from every point of view; it would mean a relapse into savagery, for the patives are not sufficiently advanced to set up any respectable form of government for themselves, nor are the Spanish mestizes a sufficiently numerous or Remember hat the blood, whether pure or impure, influential class to hold the power in their own hands. The natives and mestizes, or half-castes, as has been the case ever since the Spaniards had the islands, are bitterly opposed to the present form of government. In order to guard against this and preserve their own power (which of course would be demplished in case of posed to, so that the Spanish Government will be compelled in their own interests to very considerably increase the strength of the European garrison. To back up their case the priests have, without the slightest reason, it is said, thrown into the Manila prison during the pust three weeks over four hundred natives:

One day an English gentleman was passing the prigon when he saw half a dozen youths tied of the priests' wrath and when an officer was questioned about the crime these youngsters had committed he merely langhed and said "Oh, natives the priests believe they will so stir up the Spanish Government that the addition of several will be decided upon. The gentleman who priests, he says, placed much importance on the discovery of four hundred stand of arms somewhere in the vicinity of Manila, but no weight need be attached to this. The natives do not know much about the use of arms, while even if they did such a small number would be practically useless in ease of hard fighting. As a matter of fact the arms were intended for Mindanso. The natives do not want to fight; they do not know how to fight, but if they did they would cartainly revolt.

On Thursday evening an organ recital was given at the Roman Catholic Cathedral to celebrate the opening of the new organ. cathedral was prowded and the general opinion was that the recital was a great success. The organ is a lowspriced single manual and was made in Italy. It has, considering the comparatively small sum of money spent upon it, an exceedingly good tone, and a bargain was cortainly struck when the purchase was made. The instrument was sent to the colony over two years ago and with it came complete plans of each stage of organ building, which were sent to Mesers. Line, Crawford & Co. Mr. Duncan was deputed to effect the organ, but unfortanately he was unable to finish the work because many of the piper were broken and twisted transport. It was therefore decided to sond Italy for a ergoist man, and Mr. Vittorio Frochetti, of Bresois came here to complete the erection of the instrument. Cock fighting is their principal pastime The biggest "mills" occur on feast days, but at Agana the people congregate every Sunday afternoon and perhaps ten or twelve birds are killed. A month before Christmas the greatest cooking main of the year takes place. Last year it was held at Asan, a town of 100 inhabitants, not more than American whaler stopped there in February, noise of battle, and the blood of no less than Governor and several officers also attended, although prohibited by law from witnessing these contests. The housetops and cocoanut trees wore filled with spectators; the streets and door stops finshed with many coloured skirts and the dones throng about the ring craned their neeks and screamed as if the temperature was 70 instead of 100. Before the church and on the shady side of the neighbour ing huts many of the people had placed little stands, where rum, toddy, cakes, and native delicacies of many kinds were sold. The houses were filled with women, jabbaring and smoking ver their couss.

Thus on the third day of the feasts everybody was laughing or flirting or betting and no one noticed that the wind had died, and that the cocoanut trees ceased waving, and the birds in the forest had suddenly disappeared, leaving everything hushed but the eternal booming o the see on the coral reefs. Some one who bad gone down to the beach first saw the change, and after scanning the horizon and the sky he returned and soon everybody was down; they looked and sauffed and talked natil they decided to go home, for when the wind is straight up and down in a latitude where there is a ways a strong trade wind, something is going to occur. penal colony, and many are the scenes of boen hitched to the primitive carts besouth western horizon and the trees again began and indulgent ... Houses set on stumps and built on sand cannot withstand a heavy blew, and soon the natives with shouts and impracations were running here and there tying down their huts. Long stakes were driven into the soft sand and by means, of vinea and ropes the beams and posts were anchored. During the gale a shed or roof would occasionally give up the ghost and go orashing through the bush. Four huts were ancovered and the thatched roofs went aplintering through the sky. A performing dwarf, said to be named Robert Malone, was found dead on the outskirts of Rybope, a village near Scalam Harbour. He is supposed to have died of destitution and exhaustion. He was last engaged at the Theatre Royal, Seaham Harbour, with a variety company, which broke up, and he was left behind. Proviously he travelled with a waxwork show. He always boasted that he was two inches less in stature them General Tom

The young man picked up his hat and looked sadly at the lining: "There is no hope for me?" he asked, faintly. "None whatever," replied the beautiful girl, her eyes filled with compassion. When he reached the door, he turned toward her again. "I have to thank you for one thing," he said, bitterly. "What is that?" she inquired. "You have not told methat you would be a sister to me. "I thought of that," she rejoined, hurriedly, "but I said. donly remembered. "What?" he asked, shortly as she stopped. "That I promised. this morning, to marry your father.

I remember, many years ago, whom I lived in the East-end of London, having a chat with an old fellow who kept a small, ironmonger's shop in Three Colt Street. I wanted a cooking store. He showed me one marked at a price two shillings dearer than I knew L could get precisely the same article at a shop not a hundred yards off. I explained this to him, and he promptly knocked off helf-a-crown. I asked him why, if he was willing to take fourteen and six, he marked the thing at seventeen shillings. His answer was, "Well, to tell you the truth sir, I find oustomors like bargaining. If I were to usk them fourteen and six for this stove, half of thom would offer me twelve shillings. So I mark everything a little more than its proper price, and let them beat me down. It pleases them. and it doesn't hart mo." The discount book trade is worked on exactly the same lines, the only difference, being that while it does please the public, it does damage to the trade. Shopkuepers do not stock cooking stores by the hundred, but books have to be sold that way The publisher has to arrange his price to suit the bookseller who buys twenty-five, fifty, or hundred copies. The consequence is that the small bookseller, who can only deal in ones and twos, makes, practically speaking, nothing whatever. He has to pay dearer than his richer fival, and to sell at the same price.

A TERRIBLE COUGH. TERRIBLE COUGH. 191. Commercial Road, Peckham, July 12. "Dear Sir, I am a poor hand at expressing my feelings, but I should like to thank you. Your lozenges have done wonders in relieving my terrible cough. Since I had the operation of Tracheotomy! (the same as the late Emperor of Germany, and unlike him, thank God, I am still alive) performed at St. Bartholomew's Hospital, no one could possibly liave had a more violent cough; it was so had at times that it quite exhausted me. The mucous, which was very copious and hard, has been softened, and I have been able to get rid of it without difficulty.—I am, sir, yours truly, J. HILL DOCTOR'S TESTIMONY " Routh Park, Cardiff, South Wales, Sept. 28,

"I have, indeed, great pleasure in add ing my TETRANSATIANTICFIRE LIBURANCE Lozenges, and I have prescribed it now for the last eight years in my hospitals and private practice, and The Undersigned, having been appointed Chronic Pronchitis; your Lorenge is the only remody which gives me immediate ease. Therefore Lozenges to the public who may suffer from Catarri, Propelities, Winter Cough, or any kind of Pulmonary; Irritation. Yours truly "A. GABRIEL, M.D., L.R.C.P. and L.M. Edinbur. h.
